

Dialogues & Design Ltd

Dialogues & Design Ltd was established to produce unique solutions together with customers for their needs. We'll walk along the same path with the customer.

Is there a situation in your company, municipality, work community that does not seem to be solved by traditional means? Do you feel that you are in need of change, but something should be done differently. Doesn't interaction work and people don't commit to important reforms?

Needs and problem situations can be complex and wicked. More and more often, working life is in a situation where previous experience does not produce workable solutions and new perspective and approach is required.

Dialogues & Design Ltd produces customized and unique solutions for its customers. We have expertise in designing, mentoring, supporting and facilitating various change processes. Particularly, dialogical facilitation is our special expertise.

Unique and customized solutions mean that we do not stumble upon a complete service package or module for the customer's unique need. We create solutions together with the customer. We are thinking together with the client.

Facilitating, guiding and supporting dialogical design, change and customer processes are our core competence. We have a long experience in educating network dialogue facilitators. We also offer job counseling, conciliation and coaching processes to help the customer - as needed. We help our customers to design their own solutions and processes. Service design and user experience design are done customer-oriented.
